Silver bullet 1

Hardly anyone died of Covid-19 according to the newest epidemiological study from China, which found a paltry fatality rate of just 0.04% to 0.12%, thus far lower than the seasonal flu, which has a mortality rate of about 0.1%. As a reason for the overestimated fatality of Covid19, the researchers suspect that initially only a small number of cases were recorded in Wuhan, as the disease was probably asymptomatic or mild in many people. Now that we know the mortality rate of Covid-19 to be two times lower than that of the seasonal flu, why are our governments locking us up and denying us the most fundamental rights and liberties? Clearly not for medical reasons and certainly not for our protection.

Update : More often than we want to admit, we don't know with certainty the cause of death when we fill out death certificates. So even before we heard of COVID19, death certificates were based on assumptions and educated guesses that go unquestioned.

When it comes to COVID19, there is the additional data skewer that is, get this, there is no universal definition of COVID19 death.

Silver bullet 2

According to the latest European monitoring report, overall mortality in all countries (including Italy) and in all age groups remains within or even below the normal range so far. In other words, there are no more deaths this year, in Italy and anywhere else in Europe, than there were last year or any other year. In fact, there are fewer deaths this year.

Silver bullet 3

Despite being one of the first countries getting positive test results and having imposed no lockdown, Japan is one of the least-affected nations. Quote: "Even if Japan may not be counting all those infected, hospitals aren't being stretched thin and there has been no spike in pneumonia cases."

The Swiss government claimed that the situation in southern Switzerland (next to Italy) is "dramatic", yet local doctors denied this and said everything is normal.

Silver bullet 5

The mortality profile of COVID-19 remains puzzling from a virological point of view because, in contrast to influenza viruses, children are spared and men are affected about twice as often as women. On the other hand, this profile corresponds to natural mortality, which is close to zero for children and almost twice as high for 75-year-old men as for women of the same age. In other words, mortality is within normal parameters and has nothing to do with Covid-19.

Silver bullet 6

The test currently used for diagnosing coronavirus infections, the so-called SARS-CoV-2 Coronavirus Multiplex RT-qPCR Kit, should only be used for research and not for diagnostics according to its makers - its the last sentence written in their speil. No wonder, since studies have shown to give 80% false positives. In other words it diagnoses inaccurately 8 out of 10 times, which means that Joe the plumber could do better than that.

Silver bullet 7

Professor Sucharit Bhakdi, a world renowned expert in medical microbiology, says blaming the new coronavirus alone for deaths is "wrong and "dangerously misleading", as there are other more important factors at play, notably pre-existing health conditions and poor air quality in Chinese and Northern Italian cities. Professor Bhakdi describes the currently discussed or imposed measures as "grotesque", "useless, "self-destructive and a "collective suicide that will shorten the lifespan of the elderly and should not be accepted by society. In other words, it is the quarantine measures, the bad air, and the poor health of the elderly that are killing people not the so-called pandemic. And his expert opinion is supported by the stats : <https://www.bloomberg.com/news/articles/2020-03-18/99-of-those-who-died-from-virus-had-other-illness-italy-says>

Silver bullet 8

A model from Imperial College London predicted between 250,000 and 500,000 deaths in the UK "from" Covid-19, but the authors of the study have now conceded that many of these deaths would not be in addition to, but rather part of the normal annual mortality rate, which in the UK is about 600,000 people per year. In other words, excess mortality would remain low.

<https://www.bbc.com/news/health-51979654>

Silver bullet 9

A new French study in the Journal of Antimicrobial Agents, titled SARS-CoV-2: fear versus data, concludes that "the problem of SARS-CoV-2 is overestimated, since "the mortality rate for SARS-CoV-2 is not significantly different from that for common coronaviruses identified at the study hospital in France.

Silver bullet 10

The UK has removed Covid19 from the official list of High Consequence Infectious Diseases (HCID), stating that mortality rates are "low" overall.

<https://www.gov.uk/guidance/high-consequence-infectious-diseases-hcid#status-of-covid-19>

Silver bullet 11

The director of the German National Health Institute (RKI) admitted that they count all test-positive deaths, irrespective of the actual cause of death, as "coronavirus deaths. The average age of the deceased is 82 years, most with serious preconditions. As in most other countries, excess mortality due Covid19 is likely to be near zero in Germany.

<https://swprs.org/rki-relativiert-corona-todesfaelle/>

Silver bullet 12

The President of the World Doctors Federation, Frank Ulrich Montgomery, argues that lockdown measures as in Italy are unreasonable and "counterproductive and should be reversed.

Silver bullet 13

German Professor Karin Moelling, former Chair of Medical Virology at the University of Zurich, stated in an interview that Covid19 is "no killer virus" and that "panic must end".

https://www.radioeins.de/programm/sendungen/die_profis/archivierte_sendungen/beitraege/corona-virus-kein-killervirus.html

Silver bullet 14

German immunologist and toxicologist, Professor Stefan Hockertz, explains in a radio interview that Covid19 is no more dangerous than influenza (the flu), but that it is simply observed much more closely. More dangerous than the virus is the fear and panic created by the media and the "authoritarian reaction" of many governments. Professor Hockertz also notes that most so-called "corona deaths" have in fact died of other causes while also testing positive for coronaviruses. Hockertz believes that up to ten times more people than reported already had Covid19 but noticed nothing or very little.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7wfb-B0BWmo>

Silver bullet 15

The Argentinean virologist and biochemist Pablo Goldschmidt explains that Covid19 is no more dangerous than a bad cold or the flu. It is even possible that the Covid19 virus circulated already in earlier years, but wasn't discovered because no one was looking for it. Dr. Goldschmidt speaks of a "global terror" created by the media and politics. Every year, he says, three million newborns worldwide and 50,000 adults in the US alone die of pneumonia.

https://www.clarin.com/buena-vida/coronavirus-panico-injustificado-dice-virologo-argentino-francia_0_yVcmJ4RM.html

Silver bullet 16

Professor Martin Exner, head of the Institute for Hygiene at the University of Bonn, explains in an interview why health personnel are currently under pressure, even though there has hardly been any increase in the number of patients in Germany so far: On the one hand, doctors and nurses who have tested positive have to be quarantined and are often hard to replace. On the other hand, nurses from neighboring countries, who provide an important part of the care, are currently unable to enter the country due to closed borders.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9mI9trSm3PY>

Silver bullet 17

Professor Julian Nida-Ruemelin, former German Minister of State for Culture and Professor of Ethics, points out that Covid19 poses no risk to the healthy general population and that extreme measures such as curfews are therefore not justified.

<https://www.zdf.de/nachrichten/zdf-morgenmagazin/julian-nida-ruemelin-zur-corona-krise-100.html>

Silver bullet 18

Using data from the cruise ship Diamond Princess, Stanford Professor John Ioannidis showed that the age-corrected lethality of Covid19 is between 0.025% and 0.625%, i.e. in the range of a strong cold or the flu. Moreover, a Japanese study showed that of all the test-positive passengers, and despite the high average age, 48% remained completely symptom-free; even among the 80-89 year olds 48% remained symptom-free, while among the 70 to 79 year olds it was an astounding 60% that developed no symptoms at all. This again raises the question whether the pre-existing diseases are not perhaps a more important factor than the virus itself.

Silver bullet 19

The latest US data of March 25 shows a decreasing number of flu-like illnesses throughout the country, the frequency of which is now well below the multi-year average. The government measures can be ruled out as a reason for this, as they have been in effect for less than a week.

<https://healthweather.us/>

Silver bullet 20

The latest influenza report of the German Robert Koch Institute of March 24 documents a "nationwide decrease in activity of acute respiratory diseases": The number of influenza-like illnesses and the number of hospital stays caused by them is below the level of previous years and is currently continuing to decline. The RKI continues: "The increase in the number of visits to the doctor cannot currently be explained either by influenza viruses circulating in the population or by SARS-CoV-2."

https://influenza.rki.de/Wochenberichte/2019_2020/2020-12.pdf

Silver bullet 21

UK: The authors of the British Imperial College study, who predicted up to 500,000 deaths, are again reducing their forecasts. After already admitting that a large proportion of test-positive deaths are part of normal mortality, they now state that the peak of the disease may be reached in two to three weeks already.

<https://www.thetimes.co.uk/article/nhs-now-likely-to-cope-with-coronavirus-says-key-scientist-rn5m6nggk>

Silver bullet 22

UK: The British Guardian reported in February 2019 that even in the generally weak flu season 2018/2019 there were more than 2180 flu-related admissions to intensive care units in the UK.

<https://www.theguardian.com/society/2019/feb/20/britons-urged-to-get-flu-vaccine-as-critical-cases-rise-above-2000>

Silver bullet 23

In Switzerland, the excess mortality due to Covid19 is apparently still zero. The latest "fatal victim" presented by the media is a 100-year-old woman. Nevertheless, the Swiss government continues to tighten its restrictive measures.

<https://www.nau.ch/ort/basel/drei-weitere-covid-19-todesfalle-in-basel-stadt-65684099>

Silver bullet 24

Sweden has so far pursued the most liberal strategy in dealing with Covid19, which is based on two principles: Risk groups are protected and people with flu symptoms stay at home. "If you follow these two rules, there is no need for further measures, the effect of which is only marginal anyway," said chief epidemiologist Anders Tegnell. Social and economic life will continue normally. The big rush to hospitals has so far failed to materialize, Tegnell said.

Silver bullet 25

The latest European monitoring report on overall mortality continues to show normal or below-average values in all countries and all age groups, but now with one exception: in the 65+ age group in Italy a currently increased overall mortality is predicted (so-called delay-adjusted z-score), which is, however, still below the values of the influenza waves of 2017 and 2018.

https://www.euromomo.eu/outputs/zscore_country65.html

Silver bullet 26

According to the latest data published by the Italian Ministry of Health, overall mortality is now significantly higher in all age groups over 65 years of age, after having been below average due to the mild winter. Until March 14, overall mortality was still below the flu season of 2016/2017, but may have already exceeded it in the meantime. Most of this excess mortality currently comes from northern Italy. However, the exact role of Covid19, compared to other factors such as panic, healthcare collapse and the lockdown itself, is not yet clear.

http://www.salute.gov.it/portale/caldo/SISMG_sintesi_ULTIMO.pdf

Silver bullet 27

USA: Researcher Stephen McIntyre has evaluated the official data on deaths from pneumonia in the US. There are usually between 3000 and 5500 deaths per week and thus significantly more than the current figures for Covid19. The total number of deaths in the US is between 50,000 and 60,000 per week.

Silver bullet 28

German researcher Dr. Richard Capek argues in a quantitative analysis that the "Corona epidemic" is in fact an "epidemic of tests". Capek shows that while the number of tests has increased exponentially, the proportion of infections has remained stable and mortality has decreased, which speaks against an exponential spread of the virus itself.

<https://coronadaten.wordpress.com/>

Silver bullet 29

The two Stanford professors of medicine, Dr. Eran Bendavid and Dr. Jay Bhattacharya, explain in an article (Paywall) that the lethality of Covid19 is overestimated by several orders of magnitude and is probably even in Italy only at 0.01% to 0.06% and thus below that of influenza. The reason for this overestimation is the greatly underestimated number of people already infected (without symptoms). As an example, the fully tested Italian community of Vo is mentioned, which showed 50 to 75% symptom-free test-positive persons.

<https://www.wsj.com/articles/is-the-coronavirus-as-deadly-as-they-say-11585088464>

Silver bullet 30

A new study by the University of Oxford concludes that Covid19 may already have existed in the UK since January 2020 and that half of the population may already be infected and thus immunised, with most people experiencing no or only mild symptoms. This would mean that only one in a thousand people would need to be hospitalised for Covid19. The 30 silver bullets I have listed thus far are the work of a Swiss doctor who posted his work anonymously here: <https://swprs.org/a-swiss-doctor-on-covid-19/>

Since I don't want to take credit for his superb work I am stating this clearly here.

<https://www.medrxiv.org/content/10.1101/2020.03.24.20042291v1>

Silver bullet 31

Wildly different infection and mortality rates betray political motives and defy known behavior of viruses. It is suspiciously convenient that the nations with the highest old-age burdens, most underfunded pension plans, and highest median ages – despite also having the best medical services, standards of living and sanitation – should have infinitely higher infection and death rates than poor nations, with lousy medical systems and poor sanitation, but with young populations and no pension plans. COVID-19 behaves according to the different political objectives of nations and not according to the biological laws of pathogens.

<https://www.worldometers.info/coronavirus/>

Silver bullet 32

The world's entire scientific community is purportedly working on trying to understand the coronavirus, yet three months later and still no medical authority can answer basic questions such as whether or not the virus is airborne, how long an infected person is infectious, what the incubation period is, or whether or if an asymptomatic person is infectious or not and if so then when and for how long. Instead of receiving clear answers to simple scientific questions that should take no more than a few days or weeks to answer, only uncertain, contradictory and confusing information is forthcoming from the highest medical authorities of nation states and from the WHO, the world's highest medical authority. Clearly the official objective is to create anxiety, confusion and fear in order to manipulate the public to accept preventive measures that make no sense. Yet these scientists who are incapable of answering the most basic questions about this virus are already testing vaccines without having first performed safety tests on animals.

https://www.washingtonpost.com/health/three-months-into-the-pandemic-here-is-what-we-know-about-the-coronavirus/2020/03/28/6646f502-6eab-11ea-b148-e4ce3fbd85b5_story.html

Silver bullet 33

Three billion people live in poverty around the world and some 70 million displaced immigrants are crowded in tents and squalor in various parts of the world, yet none of them has fallen sick with COVID-19. On the other hand, more than 200 rich and famous people, from movie stars to athletes and from billionaires to heads of state, along with a few select royals, have purportedly contracted the coronavirus. If that is not odd enough consider that of these circa 200 rich and famous people none has developed any more than a few mild symptoms and many are asymptomatic. If there were any truth in the official declarations then we must conclude that COVID-19 is the world's most discriminate virus who is out to get the rich and powerful while sparing the poorest of the poor. Clearly this oddity can only be the result of a media campaign driven by political and geopolitical prerogatives and has nothing to do with the actual facts, with biology or the laws of nature?

<https://www.oregonlive.com/news/j66j-2020/03/f613d909c86535/here-are-the-famous-people-who-tested-positive-for-coronavirus-illness-covid19.html>

Silver bullet 34

Data from Wuhan shows clearly that no children, no teenagers and no young people have been hospitalized or died of the coronavirus, which killed only old and sick people. The same was confirmed by early data from Italy, where the virus purportedly evolved into an epidemic first on the European continent. Western authorities, however, didn't like this data, because it prevents them from frightening the young into permanent and weeks-long home arrest. As a result, as soon as reports of disobeying youth appeared, younger and younger people began contracting the coronavirus. One can therefore conclude that this pandemic is under the control of governments and not of nature. In the 21st century viruses behave the way politicians dictate and not the way God dictates.

<https://www.vox.com/2020/3/23/21190033/coronavirus-covid-19-deaths-by-age>

Silver bullet 35

Rules that make no medical sense whatsoever and actually run counter to medical science inform policy, which is purportedly based on the advice of the best medical experts. Covid-19 is not airborne yet everyone is forced to remain indoors 24 hours a day for weeks on end and with no clear end in sight, deprived of sunlight and movement, the fundamental pillars of good health. Social distancing rules dictate that people should stay two meters away from each other, yet the places where interpersonal distance is best possible, namely parks and recreational areas, are off limits and those who try to access them are fined. The harder governments try to justify such measures the more ridiculous they look and the stricter the restrictions become begging the question whether those who govern us have lost their sanity. But instead of providing mental health services to those who govern us the WHO is preparing the medical community for the epidemic of mental health issues the quarantine will cause.

<https://euobserver.com/coronavirus/147903>

Silver bullet 36

Hospitals are being closed and medical staff placed in quarantine to create false shortages and a false crisis in the medical system depriving critically ill people of the care they need and leading to unnecessary death. Death by denial of medical care due to falsely created shortages of hospital beds and medical staff is the reality created by the very governments and authorities entrusted with preserving our health and lives in Italy, Spain, Romania and elsewhere in Europe and around the world.

<https://www.euronews.com/2020/03/24/coronavirus-elderly-found-dead-and-abandoned-in-spanish-nursing-homes>

<https://www.romania-insider.com/coronavirus-romania-hospital-closed-covid>

Silver bullet 37

All European governments have decreed the old must be isolated and stay indoors 24 hours a day to protect them from infection and that everyone else, but those in essential services, must work from home, despite knowing full well that a sedentary lifestyle is responsible for more deaths than just about anything else. Under the pretext of protecting the elderly, whose pensions and medical costs governments can no longer pay, the experts have decided to impose a restriction on the movement of people that is known to have the worst consequences to human health and to lead to premature death. Governments have in other words decided to prematurely kill the old by denying them the very elements that keep them alive. And that is the best medical advice provided by Europe's experts and legislated into emergency law by Europe's politicians. Need I say euthanasia?

<https://www.lifespanfitness.com/workplace/resources/articles/sitting-all-day-is-taking-a-toll-on-your-body>

Silver bullet 38

The moment the President of China, Xi Jinping, decided to send the Chinese people back to work to save the economy, the pandemic miraculously stopped. Of course, China had played its role in the pandemic charade, namely to serve as a role model for the West to emulate if it is to win the battle against the coronavirus. Without China's "victory" and Italy's "failure", the West could not justify revoking all their citizens rights and liberties. China was act one of the charade, Italy act two, and the rest of Europe and the US act three. Of course, true pandemics don't stop when a president decrees that all people must return to work.

<https://www.barrons.com/articles/what-the-u-s-can-learn-from-chinas-response-to-the-coronavirus-pandemic-51584699300>

Silver bullet 39

From the onset of the pandemic in Wuhan, China, it was obvious that the most crucial piece of medical equipment is a mechanical ventilator and that China didn't have enough and had to buy some from the West despite being a major producer. Yet no country in the West or elsewhere sped up ventilator production even though the US had a simulation for a coronavirus pandemic three months prior to the actual event and should have foreseen the obvious? Why? The only logical explanation is because governments know the pandemic to be fake and therefore the need for ventilators to be fake. Three months later and in the midst of a fake pandemic both Europe and the US have purportedly mobilized industry to produce more ventilators, but will they be delivered on time or when the pandemic is suddenly over? In the meantime China says the demand for ventilators is ten times higher than it was prior to the pandemic.

<https://edition.cnn.com/2020/03/19/business/coronavirus-ventilators-manufacture-intl/index.html>

Silver bullet 40

All European nations have issued orders prohibiting hospitals and medical staff to release any information about the number of coronavirus patients. Why? Especially when the West has criticized China for censoring its medical staff and for not being forthright about its infection and mortality rates? Why would Europe impose even more draconian censorship rules on its medical professionals than even China? The answer can only be one, namely to control the narrative, to provide false data, and to prevent anyone from disputing the validity of the official data, which is all fabricated.

<https://www.nytimes.com/2020/01/22/health/virus-corona.html>

Silver bullet 41

The death rate is wildly different even between countries that have identical demographic structures and medical systems, such as Germany and Italy.

Germany has 57,695 infections but only 433 deaths (0.8%) whereas Italy has 92,472 infections and 10,023 deaths (11% death rate). The treacherous media attributes this to more testing in Germany, such as in this article:

<https://www.businessinsider.com/germany-why-coronavirus-death-rate-lower-italy-spain-test-healthcare-2020-3>

But the reality is the opposite, namely that Italy has done far more coronavirus tests per capita than Germany, nearly twice as many, as the data shows :

<https://www.statista.com/statistics/1104645/covid19-testing-rate-select-countries-worldwide/>

The true explanation is simple. Because Germany is rich enough to still be able to support its pensioners while Italy and Spain aren't. Italy and Spain are euthanizing their elderly while Germany is not.

Silver bullet 42

Even though the population is remarkably submissive and remains in isolation at home, the streets are deserted, all businesses closed, and the parks off limits, governments keep hardening their restrictions, which shows that the actions governments take under the cover of preventing the spread of the pandemic have absolutely nothing to do with people's response and behavior and are solely motivated by preexisting plans to lift any and all fundamental rights and freedoms for reasons that have yet to be revealed.

<https://www.digi24.ro/stiri/actualitate/sanatate/alexandru-rafila-probabil-luni-sau-marti-vom-trece-la-scenariul-4-1282933>

Silver bullet 43

Even though Europe has been in total quarantine for weeks, the number of infections keeps increasing exponentially with mathematical precision and at an alarming rate, which can only be explained by false reporting. Clearly governments make up the number of infections and deaths to suit their political agenda. Not surprisingly, the one European country that has decided not to shut down its economy and lock its people inside their homes to prevent the spread of the pandemic, namely Sweden, records hardly any new infections and deaths, which proves that the pandemic is a fiction.

<https://www.euronews.com/2020/03/27/covid-19-coronavirus-breakdown-of-deaths-and-infections-worldwide>

Silver bullet 44

The world's most respected virologists and epidemiologists call the current COVID-19 measures insane, damaging and utterly divorced from medical science. This begs the question, whose medical advice informs the current policy if the world's foremost experts say with one voice that quarantine measures are absolutely not necessary and are in fact insane.

<https://off-guardian.org/2020/03/24/12-experts-questioning-the-coronavirus-panic/>

<https://off-guardian.org/2020/03/28/10-more-experts-criticising-the-coronavirus-panic/>

Silver bullet 45

When the political leadership won't go along with the coronavirus scam there is no coronavirus pandemic. Belarus is the perfect example of that. Its president, Alexander Lukashenko, has the best medical advice for preventing viral infections: sauna and vodka. Either his medical advice works far better than any quarantine measures or the exploding number of COVID-19 infections reported elsewhere is manufactured.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/2020_coronavirus_pandemic_in_Belarus

As Google's COVID-19 Community Mobility Report shows, the population of Belarus has not changed any of its mobility patterns since the government has imposed no restrictions whatsoever, yet despite this there are no COVID-19 infections to speak of. https://www.gstatic.com/covid19/mobility/2020-03-29_BY_Mobility_Report_en.pdf

Silver Bullet 46

Either the high officials who come up with the latest restrictions intended to prevent the spread of the coronavirus pandemic are mentally retarded or they have hidden objectives. You decide. Article 12, point 3 of the newest military ordinance states: "The ban on the movement of people in a group of more than 3 applies exclusively to pedestrian traffic." In other words, the government deems it safe to have a car or minivan full of people, but unsafe for more than three people to walk down the street together. In its wisdom, the government has also decided to close all parks, big or small in order to prevent the spread of the virus. It is not safe for people to walk in a park even if they keep two or ten or twenty meters apart, but it is safe for five people to drive together in a car shoulder to shoulder.

Of course these decisions make no medical sense whatsoever, but they make perfect environmental sense, as they ensure that one car carries as many people as possible to work, but that no one can use a car to drive to a park, which is not an essential activity at a time of crisis (be it real or invented). It is therefore clear that the sustainability agenda and not human health informs the quarantine restrictions. Otherwise we would have to conclude that we are governed by mental retards.

Silver bullet 47

No airborne transmission for COVID-19 according to the latest science and the highest medical authority on the planet, the WHO. Yet we see no ease in the quarantine, isolation and social distancing measures taken by governments, measures that are only indicated for pathogens that are transmitted through air. On the contrary, the measures grow more radical from day to day, which shows that our governments are not acting in accordance to medical science but political, geopolitical and environmental objectives. Although the current measures are specific to airborne pathogens and have disastrous economic, social and even medical consequences if prolonged, our governments continue to enforce the most stringent quarantine measures and to manufacture infection rates through false, inaccurate testing or even no testing at all.

<https://www.who.int/news-room/commentaries/detail/modes-of-transmission-of-virus-causing-covid-19-implications-for-ipc-precaution-recommendations/>

Silver bullet 48

The COVID-19 virus has caused ten times fewer infections globally than the common flu causes annually in the US alone. The COVID-19 virus has caused three times fewer deaths globally than the common flu causes annually in the US alone. By comparing the coronavirus with the common flu on a global scale with the current numbers we find that it causes just 0.1% of the infections (500,000 versus 500 million) and just 4.6% of the deaths (23,000 versus 500,000) the common flu causes. It is in other words a rather harmless virus. And we arrive at these figures by taking the official numbers of COVID-19 infections and deaths at face value even though we know by now that these figures are pulled out of a hat. This being the case we can only conclude that either our leaders have gone completely insane or that they have other objectives and are using a relatively harmless virus and a fake pandemic to turn the world upside down.

<https://www.livescience.com/new-coronavirus-compare-with-flu.html>

Silver bullet 49

The coronavirus, we are told, has an incubation period of two weeks, time during which the infected person remains asymptomatic, but is infectious. We are also told it takes two weeks to recover from it, time during which the infected person is highly contagious. And last we are told that it takes another two weeks before the infected person is no longer a threat to others. Prince Charles, however, did in 1 week what for the rest of us takes 6 weeks. Either Prince Charles has superpowers (perhaps due to his exceedingly large ears) or the system is lying about everything related to this fake pandemic. Those are the only two logical explanations.

No one but the central command knows how many COVID-19 patients there are in the country. And the central command tells no one this information, not even the military staff in charge of the various regions of the country. The central command tells no one this information because there are no COVID-19 patients other than the common flu patients that are intentionally misdiagnosed as COVID-19 patients by false test kits. And since all doctors and all hospitals are muzzled by strict confidentiality orders issued under military ordinances and enforced with years of prison time, no one can gather this information independently to find out the truth. That way no one can challenge the official narrative, which has the nearly impossible task of creating and sustaining the impression of a pandemic long enough to accomplish the UN sustainability goals irrespective of death, pain and suffering caused to billions. The evidence in the article below is from a Romanian military high official, but the same methodology is applied throughout the western world.

Italian microbiologist Maria Rita Gismondo calls on the Italian government to stop communicating the daily number of "corona positives" as these figures are "fake" and put the population in unnecessary panic. The number of test-positives depends very much on the type and number of tests and says nothing about the state of health.

The latest data from the German Robert Koch Institute show that the increase in test-positive persons is proportional to the increase in the number of tests, i.e. in percentage terms it remains roughly the same. This may indicate that the increase in the number of cases is mainly due to an increase in the number of tests, and not due to an ongoing epidemic.

In Germany, some clinics can no longer accept patients - not because there are too many patients or too few beds, but because the nursing staff have tested positive, although in most cases they hardly show any symptoms. This case illustrates again how and why health care systems are getting paralysed.

In a German retirement and nursing home for people with advanced dementia, 15 "test-positive" people have died. However, "surprisingly many people have died without showing symptoms of corona." A German medical specialist informs us: "From my medical point of view, there is some evidence that some of these people may have died as a result of the measures taken. People with dementia get into high stress when major changes are made to their everyday lives: isolation, no physical contact, possibly hooded staff." Nevertheless, the deceased are counted as "corona deaths" in German and international statistics. In connection with the "corona crisis", it is now also possible to die of an illness without even having its symptoms.

Various media reported that more than 50 doctors in Italy have already died "during the corona crisis", like soldiers in a battle. A glance at the corresponding list, however, shows that most of the deceased are retired doctors of various kinds, including 90-year-old psychiatrists and pediatricians, many of whom may have died of natural causes.

Silver bullet 59

In several countries, there is increasing evidence in relation to Covid19 that "the treatment could be worse than the disease. On the one hand, there is the risk of so-called nosocomial infections, i.e. infections that the patient, who may only be mildly ill, acquires in hospital. It is estimated that there are approximately 2.5 million nosocomial infections and 50,000 deaths per year in Europe. Even in German intensive care units, about 15% of patients acquire a nosocomial infection, including pneumonia on artificial respiration. There is also the problem of increasingly antibiotic-resistant germs in hospitals. Another aspect is the certainly well-intentioned but sometimes very aggressive treatment methods that are increasingly used in Covid19 patients. These include, in particular, the administration of steroids, antibiotics and anti-viral drugs (or a combination thereof). Already in the treatment of SARS-1 patients, it has been shown that the outcome with such treatment was often worse and more fatal than without such treatment.

Silver bullet 60

Dr. Richard Capek and other researchers have already shown that the number of test-positive individuals in relation to the number of tests performed remains constant in all countries studied so far, which speaks against an exponential spread ("epidemic") of the virus and merely indicates an exponential increase in the number of tests. Depending on the country, the proportion of test-positive individuals is between 5 and 15%, which corresponds to the usual spread of corona viruses. Interestingly, these constant numerical values are not actively communicated (or even removed) by authorities and the media. Instead, exponential but irrelevant and misleading curves are shown without context. Such behavior, of course, does not correspond to professional medical standards, as a look at the traditional influenza report of the German Robert Koch Institute makes clear.

Silver bullet 61

A graphical analysis of the European monitoring data impressively shows that, irrespective of the measures taken, overall mortality throughout Europe remained in the normal range or below by March 25, and often significantly below the levels of previous years. Only in Italy (65+) was the overall mortality rate somewhat increased (probably for several reasons), but it was still below previous flu seasons.

Silver bullet 62

The president of the German Robert Koch Institute confirmed again that pre-existing conditions and actual cause of death do not play a role in the definition of so-called "corona deaths. From a medical point of view, such a definition is clearly misleading. It has the obvious and generally known effect of putting politics and society in fear.

Silver bullet 63

In Italy the situation is now beginning to calm down. As far as is known, the temporarily increased mortality rates (65+) were rather local effects, often accompanied by mass panic and a breakdown in health care. The lead author of the study, the dean of a medical school, did not want to give the reason for the withdrawal and spoke of a "sensitive matter", which could indicate political pressure, as an NPR journalist noted. Independent of this study, however, the unreliability of so-called PCR virus tests has long been known: In 2006, for example, a mass infection in a Canadian nursing home with SARS corona viruses was "found", which later turned out to be common cold corona viruses (which can also be fatal for risk groups).

Italian doctors reported that they had already observed severe cases of pneumonia in northern Italy at the end of last year. However, genetic analyses now show that the Covid19 virus only appeared in Italy in January of this year. "The severe pneumonia diagnosed in Italy in November and December must therefore be due to a different pathogen, a virologist noted. This once again raises the question what role the Covid19 virus, or other factors, actually play in the Italian situation. On March 30, we mentioned the list of Italian doctors who died "during the Corona crisis, many of whom were up to 90 years old and didn't actively participate in the crisis at all. Today, all years of birth on the list have been removed (see however the last archive version). A strange procedure. We have also received the following message from an observer in Italy, who gives further details about the dramatic situation there, which is obviously due to far more than a virus:" In recent weeks, most of the Eastern European nurses who worked 24 hours a day, 7 days a week supporting people in need of care in Italy have left the country in a hurry. This is not least because of the panic-mongering and the curfews and border closures threatened by the "emergency governments". As a result, old people in need of care and disabled people, some without relatives, were left helpless by their carers. Many of these abandoned people then ended up after a few days in the hospitals, which had been permanently overloaded for years, because they were dehydrated, among other things. Unfortunately, the hospitals lacked the personnel who had to look after the children locked up in their apartments because schools and kindergartens had been closed. This then led to the complete collapse of the care for the disabled and the elderly, especially in those areas where even harder "measures were ordered, and to chaotic conditions.

The nursing emergency, which was caused by the panic, temporarily led to many deaths among those in need of care and increasingly among younger patients in the hospitals. These fatalities then served to cause even more panic among those in charge and the media, who reported, for example, "another 475 fatalities". The dead are being removed from hospitals by the army, accompanied by pictures of coffins and army trucks lined up. However, this was the result of the funeral directors' fear of the "killer virus", who therefore refused their services. Moreover, on the one hand there were too many deaths at once and on the other hand the government passed a law that the corpses carrying the coronavirus had to be cremated. In Catholic Italy, few cremations had been carried out in the past. Therefore there were only a few small crematoria, which very quickly reached their limits. Therefore the deceased had to be laid out in different churches. In principle, this development is the same in all countries. However, the quality of the health system has a considerable influence on the effects. Therefore, there are fewer problems in Germany, Austria or Switzerland than in Italy, Spain or the USA. However, as can be seen in the official figures, there is no significant increase in the mortality rate. Just a small mountain that came from this tragedy."

Contrary to media reports, the register of German intensive care units shows no increased occupancy. Also in Swiss clinics, no increased occupancy has been observed so far. A visitor to the cantonal hospital in Lucerne reports that there is "less activity than in normal times. Even in Ticino, the intensive care units are not working to capacity, but patients are now being transferred to the German-Swiss departments. Biophysicist Felix Scholkmann has visualized the fact that in the US (as in the rest of the world), it is not the number of "infected people that is increasing exponentially, but the number of tests. Silver bullet 78

According to the latest influenza report of the German Robert Koch Institute, the number of acute respiratory diseases has "fallen sharply nationwide. The values have "dropped in all age groups. By March 20, the total number of inpatient cases with acute respiratory diseases had also fallen significantly. In the age group from 80 years and older, the number of cases had almost halved compared to the previous week. In the 73 hospitals examined, 7% of all cases with respiratory diseases were diagnosed with COVID- 19. In the age groups 35-59 years it was 16% and in the age group 60-79 years it was 13% who received a COVID-19 diagnosis. These figures correspond to those from other countries as well as to the typical prevalence of coronaviruses (5 to 15%).

Silver bullet 79

An article in DIE ZEIT discusses the issue of intensive care patients in Germany: "At present politicians, experts and many citizens observe with concern the exponentially increasing number of people who are newly infected every day. However, this is not the decisive indicator for assessing how badly the corona crisis is and will hit Germany. For it is distorted above all by the number of tests, which have been increasing for weeks. In order to measure the burden on the health system, the number of those who are so seriously ill that they need to be ventilated is particularly important. As long as there are enough ventilation places for them, a great many of them can be saved. Only when these beds become scarce does a situation like the one in Italy threaten. The DIVI register now shows that the situation in the German intensive care units has been relaxed so far. "We are still in a comfortable area," says Grabenhenrich. The number of seriously ill patients is not rising as steeply as the number of infected patients and even if it did, it would still be possible to provide a large number of intensive care beds with very good equipment.

Figures from the northern Italian city of Treviso (near Venice) show that, despite 108 test-positive deaths by the end of March, overall mortality in municipal hospitals remained roughly the same as in previous years. In this case we have had 8000 deaths this last year in the 'at risk' groups viz over 65% people with heart disease etc. I do not feel this current Covid will exceed this number. We have all seen the gruesome videos and images of people dropping dead on the street in Wuhan, China, during the months of January and

The lungs collapse gradually and it takes days of intubation and severe comorbidities before someone can die of COVID-19. This being the case, we now know all these videos and pictures coming out of China, the world's most censored nation, to be fake and the product of the Chinese authorities. They were intended to sow fear and panic in the rest of the world so the people of the free world could be deprived of their fundamental rights and liberties under the pretext of protecting public health from a deadly virus.

Google's data on the mobility changes due to the various measures imposed by governments to stop the spread of COVID-19 shows that the many nations that imposed lockdowns have much higher infection and mortality rates than the few nations that didn't, such as Sweden, Belarus, Taiwan, South Korea and the Netherlands. It is therefore clear that quarantine measures not only do not work but are in fact counterproductive as they result in much higher infection and mortality rates in addition to economic hardship that will have disastrous long-term consequences not only on the standard of living but also on human health.

The current data on the global spread of COVID-19 shows paradoxically that the world's poorest nations have virtually no infections while the world's richest nations have the most infections. If this so-called pandemic were real the situation would be reversed. One must therefore conclude that the COVID-19 is either a virus that infects only rich people who live in countries with great sanitation and advanced medical systems or it is a disease invented to serve political, environmental and geopolitical purposes.

On March 10, when Albania registered just 10 confirmed cases of COVID-19, the government imposed a lockdown on its entire population. But 10 people out of a population of 2,9 million people means an incidence of 0.00034%, which would not even qualify as a rare disease let alone as a pandemic. Albania succumbed to international pressure and imposed a lockdown in order to comply with the political decision to declare a harmless pathogen a pandemic irrespective of its presence in the population and harm to it. To this day, Albania has just 270 confirmed COVID-19 cases. And if we consider that the tests currently used give a false positive 50% to 80% of the time, it means there are fewer than 100 confirmed cases, which is enough cases to qualify as a rare disease. Nevertheless, the quarantine measure and the lockdown continue and have been made much stricter on March 16. Yet the medical situation is so relaxed that "on 29 March, Albania sent a group of thirty medical staff members to Lombardy, Italy. Prime Minister Edi Rama said his country was thanking former Italian help."

Montenegro, which has a population of 632,000 and is a stone's throw away from Italy had no COVID-19 infections until March 17 when it confirmed its first two cases. On the same day, the rest of Europe recorded 9,463 new COVID-19 infections and Italy alone had 27,980 confirmed cases in total by then. Why would a country in the middle of Europe remain immune to the pandemic? To this day, Montenegro remains largely untouched by COVID-19 as it has registered only 193 cases and 2 deaths. Furthermore, the government has imposed no quarantine measures on its population with the exception of Tuzi, a small town of about 5,000 people, which was placed under lockdown on March 24. Conspicuously, Montenegro is also left out of Google's mobility data. Had it been included it would have been painfully obvious that despite living as usual and doing absolutely nothing to prevent the pandemic, Montenegro has remained virtually untouched by COVID-19.

Silver bullet 88

If there truly was a pandemic caused by a virus called COVID-19 the rate of death would be the same or nearly the same throughout the world. But since this is not the case, the number of deaths double in some countries every 2 days, in others every 3 days, in yet others every 5 days and in a few even every 10 days. Why? The only logical answer is that some countries are more committed than others in faking a pandemic. And they are less committed because they are not trying to euthanise its old and sick people under the cover of the fake COVID-19 pandemic. The nations with the most deaths and the fastest rate of death have the oldest populations, the highest median age, the most underfunded pension plans and the highest per capita debt. As such, it is in their interest to euthanise as many old and sick people as possible to save themselves from financial collapse. The nations with the most deaths and the fastest rate of death are also Catholic (Italy, Spain, France) and that means they cannot euthanise the old as it would violate the Church's doctrines. Instead they have received the Church's permission to euthanise the old in one mass killing event under the cover of a fake pandemic. And that is precisely what they are doing.

Why would the same virus, COVID-19, behave in such a radically different manner in the US compared to other nations presumably afflicted by it? Why would it explode in such a manner and progress three times faster and three times further than anywhere else on the planet?? Because the US does not want to miss the best opportunity ever to pursue its geopolitical objectives and because it always wants to be the first at everything, even at disaster. That means the COVID-19 virus is under political control and not under the control of nature. COVID-19 is not a viral disease but a political one and is as contagious as heads of state and government decide it to be.

The first cases of COVID-19 outside of China were identified in Thailand on January 13. But even though Thailand's population is dense and the government took no measures whatsoever to stop its spread, two months later and the disease has still not made any progress there. How can that be? How can there be just 2000 infections in Thailand over the course of two months and despite no prevention measures while in Italy, Spain, France, the US and elsewhere there are tens of thousands of cases in half that time and despite the most draconian and fascist measures in the history of mankind? The answer can only be one. Because this pandemic is the creation of politics and of a system utterly incapable of solving the world's dire problems by truth and leadership.

Silver bullet 91

The first cases of COVID-19 outside of China were identified on January 13 in Thailand and on January 16 in Japan. And as in Thailand so in Japan the disease made no inroads and has so far managed to infect a paltry 2,600 people even though the government of Japan has imposed no lockdown and took only mild measures. During half this time, however, COVID-19 is supposed to have infected nearly half a million people in Europe where life has been stopped dead by the most draconian quarantine measures. And if that is not odd enough, one must consider that in a quarter of this time COVID-19 has managed to infect 270,000 in the US.

How can that be? Especially when one considers the high density of Japan's population and the absence of a lockdown. The purveyors of lies want us to believe that it is Japan's impeccable hygiene. But that is of course utter rubbish. For if that were the truth the disease would not experience a sudden surge as soon as it was announced that the Olympic Games are cancelled. The only logical explanation is this. Our leaders never thought the people of the world would be so docile as to accept being locked in their homes day and night and be bankrupted without scarce a complaint. They thought it would be a miracle if they could keep the show going for two weeks let alone for two months. But the miracle happened and Japan's government saw its dreams of holding the Olympic Games crushed by the people's docility, stupidity and gullibility. Faced with a cancelled Olympics it decided to go all the way with the COVID-19 farce. The government of Japan has recently announced its intentions to impose a lockdown and will surely follow through.

The Center for Disease Control (CDC) aggregate data on pneumonia and influenza deaths shows the mortality rate to be far lower this year than in previous years, which bluntly contradicts the current government and media reports, which want us to believe that a pandemic is occurring in the US. In other words, there is no pandemic.

Taiwan is also one of the most densely populated countries in the world and adopted no quarantine measures whatsoever for the general population and certainly no lockdown, yet the number of infections to this day is at just 363 for a population of 24 million. In fact, Google's newly released COVID-19 mobility data shows that life in Taiwan continues virtually unchanged.

Taiwan shows the world that there is no pandemic. Its political leaders have so far refused to go along with the destruction of their citizens' lives, liberties, health and livelihoods under the pretext of a false pandemic.

In Austria, as elsewhere in Europe nowadays, "corona deaths" are apparently defined "very liberally", as the media report: "Do you also count as a corona death if you are infected with the virus but die of something else? Yes, say Rudi Anschober and Bernhard Benka, members of the Corona Task Force in the Ministry of Health. There is a clear rule at present: Died with the corona virus or died from the corona virus both count for the statistics. No difference is made as to what the patient actually died of. In other words, a 90-year-old man who dies with a fracture of the femoral neck and becomes infected with corona in the hours prior to his death is also counted as corona death. To name but one example."

The German Robert Koch Institute now advises against autopsies of test-positive deceased persons because the risk of droplet infection by aerosols is allegedly too high. In many cases, this means that the real cause of death can no longer be determined. A specialist in pathology comments on this as follows: "Who might think evil of it! Up to now, it has been a matter of course for pathologists to carry out autopsies with appropriate safety precautions even in the case of infectious diseases such as HIV/AIDS, hepatitis, tuberculosis, PRION diseases, etc. It is quite remarkable that in a disease that is killing thousands of patients all over the world and bringing the economy of entire countries to a virtual standstill, only very few autopsy findings are available (six patients from China). From the point of view of both the epidemic police and the scientific community, there should be a particularly high level of public interest in autopsy findings. However, the opposite is the case. Are you afraid of finding out the true causes of death of the positively tested deceased? Could it be that the numbers of corona deaths would then melt away like snow in the spring sun?"

Italy: Russian experts have noticed "strange deaths" in nursing homes in Lombardy: "According to newspaper reports, several cases have been registered in the town of Gromo in which alleged corona virus-infected persons simply fell asleep and never woke up again. No real symptoms of the disease had been observed in the deceased until then. As the director of the nursing home later clarified in an interview with RIA Novosti, it is unclear whether the deceased were actually infected with the coronavirus, because nobody in the home had been tested for it. In the homes, where medical and nursing teams from Russia are working, corridors, bed rooms and dining rooms are disinfected."

Here again the serious question arises: Who dies from the virus and who dies from the sometimes extreme measures?

Nursing staff: The Süddeutsche Zeitung reports: "Throughout Europe, the pandemic is endangering the care of elderly people at home because nursing staff can no longer visit them - or have left the respective country in a hurry to return home."

Lastly: Stanford professor of medicine Dr. Jay Bhattacharya gave a half-hour interview in which he questions the "conventional wisdom" regarding Covid19. The existing measures had been decided on the basis of very uncertain and partly questionable data.

In a 40-minute interview, the internationally renowned epidemiology professor Knut Wittkowski from New York explains that the measures taken on Covid19 are all counterproductive. Instead of "social distancing", school closures, "lock down", mouth masks, mass tests and vaccinations, life must continue as undisturbed as possible and immunity must be built up in the population as quickly as possible. According to all findings to date, Covid-19 is no more dangerous than previous influenza epidemics. Isolation now would only cause a "second wave" later.

The British Medical Journal (BMJ) reports that, according to the latest data from China, 78% of new test-positive individuals show no symptoms. An Oxford epidemiologist said that these findings are "very, very important. He added that if the results are representative, "then we have to ask, "What the hell are we locking down for?"

Dr. Andreas Sönnichsen, head of the Department of General and Family Medicine at the Medical University of Vienna and chairman of the Network for Evidence-Based Medicine, considers the measures imposed so far to be "insane". The whole state is being paralyzed just to "protect the few it could affect.

In a world first, the Swedish government has announced that it is going to officially distinguish between deaths "by" and deaths "with" the coronavirus, which should lead to a reduction in reported deaths. Meanwhile, for some reason, international pressure on Sweden to abandon its liberal strategy is steadily increasing.

<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2020/04/03/coronavirus-swedish-experiment-could-prove-britain-wrong/>In Germany, the Hamburg health authority now has test-positive deaths examined by forensic medicine in order to count only "real" corona deaths. As a result, the number of deaths has already been reduced by up to 50% compared to the official figures of the Robert Koch Institute.

A leaked confidential strategy paper of the German government shows that the German government, in conjunction with the media and some scientists, is apparently following a "shock" strategy to make people afraid of a "worst case" scenario. The general population for whom the virus is largely harmless should be warned against "painful suffocation;" likewise, children playing in playgrounds could cause the "painful" death of their parents.

Several German law firms are preparing lawsuits against the measures and regulations that have been issued. A specialist in medical law writes in a press release: "The measures taken by the federal and state governments are blatantly unconstitutional and violate a multitude of basic rights of citizens in Germany to an unprecedented extent. This applies to all corona regulations of the 16 federal states. In particular, these measures are not justified by the Infection Protection Act, which was revised in no time at all just a few days ago. Because the available figures and statistics show that corona infection is harmless in more than 95% of the population and therefore does not represent a serious danger to the general public."
